YOUTH TAKE ON THE "SCOUTS CHALLENGE"

Game encourages Scouts around the world to learn about mining in Canada

Sudbury, ON, July 30, 2007 – Scouts around the globe will be celebrating the Canada and World Jamborees slated for the end of July. When they get there, they will face a new challenge, one that combines mining education with the chance to win a prize, through the "Scouts Challenge".

Developed and hosted by MIRARCO, Laurentian University's not-for-profit mining & environmental research company in Sudbury, Ontario, this game encourages curiosity and learning about the many facets of mining.

Jane Djivre, Business Development Officer, MIRARCO, is excited that MIRARCO has been given the opportunity to connect with youth in this way. "Mining is so multi-faceted. This is a great chance for youth to understand what it's about, and its exciting range of careers." The grand prize is a $350 GPS unit, and in honour of the Scouts' 100 year anniversary, the first 100 students who complete the game will be entered into a draw for a $100 gift certificate. The game is open to all Scouts and can be played at <http://thegame.mirarco.org>.
